30 DAYS GRACE.

Owners of Property in Sheriff's Sale Have 30 Days to Redeem Same.

On the 10th day of March, 1919, Sheriff Walker, by virtue of his office, offered for sale at public outcry at the court house door in Hickman, Ky., after having duly advertised same, property, consisting of farm lands and town lots, owned by about 150 persons, who failed to pay their taxes on the property. There being no bidder for the sale of said property, it was bought in by said sheriff and tax collector for the state and county.

Under Section 4125, Ky. Statutes, Vol. 3, it becomes my duty to notify said property owners of the said sale, and you are hereby notified that 30 days hence proceedings will be instituted against you for the recovery of this property, and you will be barred from redeeming the same thereafter, unless an additional cost is added. Therefore you are urged to redeem this property within 30 days from this date.—Dee L. McNeill, County Attorney, Fulton County.

MUSICAL IN FULTON.

Glen Ellison, the popular Scotch baritone, will be heard in an unique recital at the Opera House on the evening of April 22nd.

There are few men who have made such a success both in concert and vaudeville as Glen Ellison. In Europe and Australia he is better known as a singer of baritone opera roles. Whatever he sings is rendered with a wonderful understanding of the requirements of the selection, deep feeling and in a wonderfully appealing voice. It is when he sings the lovely old songs of his native Scotland that Mr. Ellison rises to artistic heights. He sings them with rare effect. He has sung leading roles in grand opera in England and Australia. His concerts are generally entirely different from the stilted orthodox kind for he generally includes a few rollicking tunes that appeal to everybody.

Admittance to the recital will be by card only. Apply at once for tickets to the undersigned.

WHEN IT CAME TO SAVING OUR BOYS

THINK OF SITUATION YEAR AGO,
AND HOW READY WE WERE TO STAKE ALL.

BIG DEBT WAS INCURRED

War Closed Earlier Than Anyone
Expected, and We Must Finish
Paying For It.

When your boy was on the fighting front over there last fall, or was in one of the training camps over here being hardened for the most terrible task that ever confronted man; when countless mothers with sad eyes were scanning the death lists with hearts aflutter, fearing lest the name of a loved one might be there; when the fate of the nation and of the world hung in the balance, then the thought uppermost in every mind was the winning of the war and the avoidance of continued loss of life.

Then during the fall months of 1918 the purse strings of America's citizens were cut with willing hands. For the Fourth Liberty Loan—the Fighting Liberty Loan—the almost inconceivable sum of six billions of dollars was asked by the United States Government to prosecute the war. What the answer was is history—glorious history.

Americans not only met the call, but threw in another billion for good measure.

It required the most sanguine optimist then to predict a victory over Germany before the summer that is now approaching. Thousands of America's best and bravest young men, the flower of the country, were daily offering up and giving their lives for the weal of humanity. They were suffering ghastly wounds, inflicted by weapons such as only the brutality of Germany's most vicious minds could fashion; they were being blinded and tortured with poisonous gases that Germany introduced against all usages into modern warfare, and they were lying in the mud of slimy trenches, deprived of every comfort, with each recurrent day sapping their vitality, that America might be saved.

Total Wealth Pledged.

Then could anyone in absolute authority have promised a victory before Europe was locked in winter's grasp, the total wealth of this rich land would unhesitatingly have been placed at the nation's disposal, that the lives of countless thousands of the flower of American manhood need not be sacrificed.

Those who were planning and directing the war, or that part of it being enacted by America, were dominated by the idea of ending the war quickly and saving every American life possible. The cost was not counted. The money that flowed from the people's purse was spent un stintedly. Millions were spent to equip the grandest army the sun ever shone on. Other millions were spent for ships to convey them across the Atlantic. Factories were kept at work night and day turning out munitions and supplies.

America surpassed even herself. She arose even above the glorious traditions of the world's greatest country, that has never tasted defeat. She accomplished the impossible. At the very moment when the German war machine seemed invincible, when that which was intended as the final drive that was to wipe France off the map, then Pershing's lads were thrown against that terrible army in gray. The onslaught was all that Germany had planned. But the stolid German mind had not adequately valued the fighting ability of the boys in khaki. The gray clad hosts attacked with all the confidence of their training. But the Americans did not yield. Their depleted ranks were filled as if by magic and that which German militarists contemptuously termed an untrained mob, displayed soldierly qualities and persistent fighting qualities that has elicited the warmest admiration of the whole world.

Finish the Job!

Every day the war was shortened thousands of American lives were saved. For every day it was shortened your boy or your neighbor's boy will be returned to the family fireside just that much sooner, and this fact that he will return sound in body and mind is due to the splendid preparations his government made for his welfare and the prosecution of the war.

Now more money is needed to pay the bills—the debt that was incurred that the life of your boy and your neighbor's boy might not be offered up on the sacrificial altar of war, must be paid. Money is needed to bring him back to the land that gave birth to the Stars and Stripes. Money is needed to complete the reconstruction and to "Finish the Job."

Just how much will be asked, just how much interest will be paid, just what form the securities offered will take, and just when they will mature have not been announced. They are mere details. The nation's honor has been pledged, and the American people will redeem it with the Victory Liberty Loan.
